

Statement of Corporate Policy Commitment

The CTPAT (Customs Trade Partnership Against Terrorism) program was conceived shortly after the 9/11 attacks to protect supply chains from terrorism and work jointly with volunteer partnerships in the public-private sector to improve U.S. border security.

In December 2002, Century Distribution Systems, Inc. was accepted as a member into the CTPAT program. Century has always operated under the premise that security is a fundamental part of the business requirement and we are continually working to exceed our ongoing obligations under the CTPAT program. Century understands security is everyone's responsibility which is why our affiliates, executive officers, management, employees and business partners are committed to strengthening our global supply chain.

As participants in the CTPAT program, we are committed to:

- Meeting or exceeding the recommended requirements;
- Providing a safe environment for our employees, customers, vendors and visitors;
- Investigating where a breach or cargo security has been compromised and notify proper authorities;
- Providing on-going support and training;
- Collaborate with U.S. Customs and its efforts; and
- Document security practices and procedures.

As Century continues to evolve our security program, we look forward to unified efforts with Customs and this joint-partnership to continue to strengthen and improve our global security program.
